What I will know by the end of the unit

- Drawing is a form of 2D art.
- Lines can be made using different media.
- A sketch is a series of lines to make a picture.
- Observational drawing is looking at an object in front of us and drawing lines to show what we see.
- We can draw from photographs, pictures of other art or our imagination.
- Lines can be drawn of different sizes and thickness and can be light or dark.
- Dots and lines can help to add movement, pattern and texture to a picture.
- There are different drawing techniques which can add shading and tone such as hatching, scribbling, stippling and blending.
- We can change the tone of the media by changing the pressure and layering.
- We can use media to add colour to our drawing.
- I will experiment with different drawing media and techniques.
- I will use my drawing skills and techniques to draw and create final pieces—Remembrance artefact, human eye, human figure, sunflowers, dinosaur / fossil.
- Making mistakes in sketching are an important way of evaluating our work and making it better.
