Today we were going to be writing riddles about rainforest animals but instead we'll write a riddle about our elf!

What is a Riddle?

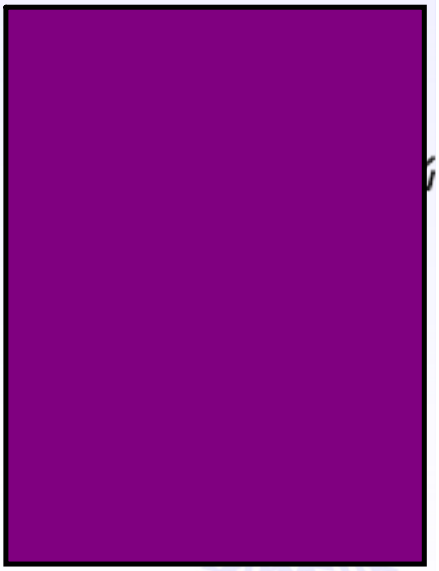

Riddles

A riddle is a type of poetry that describes something without actually naming what it is, leaving the reader to guess.

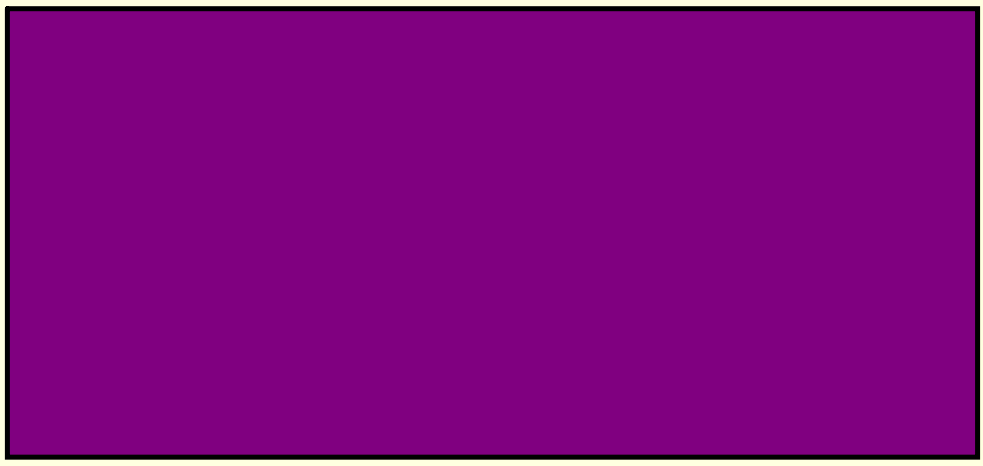

A good riddle will start with the harder clues to keep you guessing for longer!!

Let's look at some together.....

I can be lots of different sizes.
I have eyes, a nose and a mouth.
When children build me they have lots of fun,
but I melt away quickly in the hot sun.
What am I?

I can be hard.
I am longer than your thumb but shorter than a ruler.
I am yellow but sometimes black.
I am shaped like the moon.
I grow on trees in bunches.
I have got slippery skin.
You can whisk me up in a milkshake.
What am I?

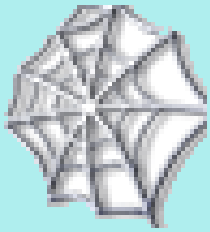

Let's have a look at some more?

Today we are writing a riddle about our elf!

What do we know about elves?

Let's find out more!

When we write our clues for the riddle we need to think about...

- What it looks like.
- Where it lives.
- What it's job is.
- What it likes doing.
- Who it knows!

Tell your partner about your elf!

WAGOLL:

I am bigger than a mouse but smaller than a horse,
I live in an extremely cold place but I am always warm,
I work all year round in a busy, exciting factory,
I enjoy reading especially fun, interesting letters from children,
My boss is Santa and he's the best!
What am I?

What makes it good?

finished with 'what am I?'

Let's start writing one together.

Now it's your turn!

Write a riddle about your elf!

Use good clues and start with a tricky clue to guess first!

finished with 'what am I?'

- What it looks like.
- Where it lives.
- What it's job is.
- What it likes doing.
- Who it knows!

Let's share our riddles!
