
Write a non-fiction report about the human eye.
Plan your non-fiction eye report.
?
Research the human eye and find information!
N
W
E
S

Friday session 1
We are learning to use our research to write a scientific report all about eyes.

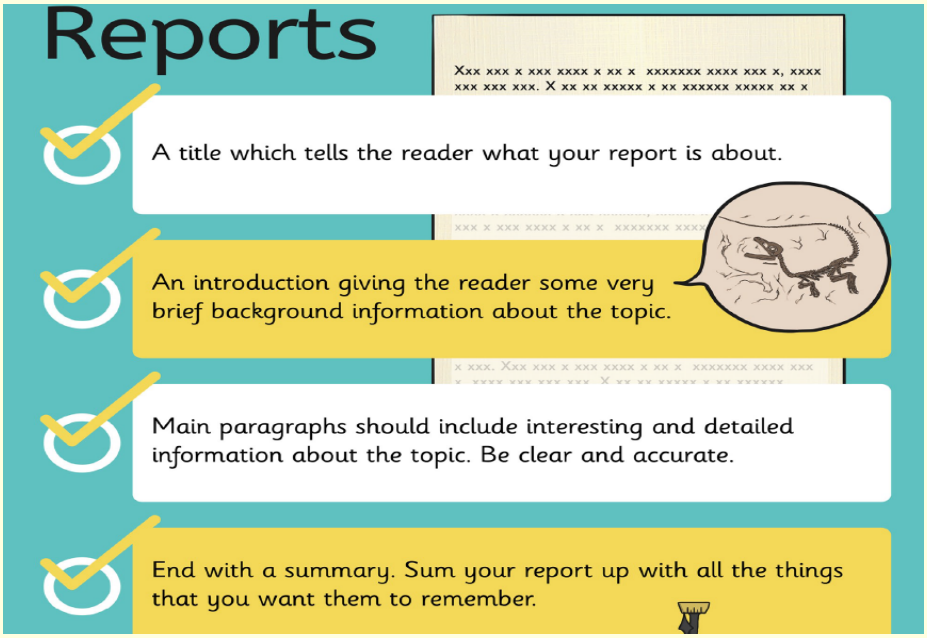

Feb 3-16:04

Can you remember the different parts of the eye?

Feb 3-16:07

We are going to write a report all about the eye. A report is an information text that tells the reader all about something.

Feb 3-16:13

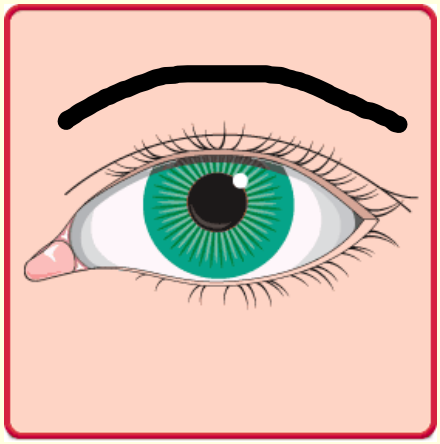

Our report is all about eyes.

We need to organise our writing into subheadings. What might our subheadings be?

Eyelid

Tear duct

Pupil

Eyelashes

Iris

Eyebrow

Feb 8-19:42

What could you use to help you write your report on the eye?

Choose your best fact from your research and planning yesterday.

Feb 9-17:30

Wagoll: What information could you write next?

All about eyes.

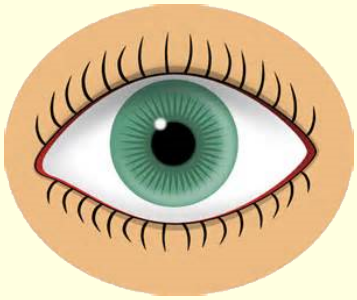

Eye Lid

An eyelid is a soft, thin piece of skin that covers and protects the eye. Cleverly, a special muscle pulls back the eyelid to open the eye and people do this every few seconds without realising! Did you know eyelids stop our eyes drying out when we are asleep?

Pupil

Feb 5-15:14

Now it's your turn!

Write a report all about the eye.

Don't forget to use your bossy voice and organise your writing using subheadings.

Red - stay on carpet to work with CT

Feb 3-16:17

Red Team -

Looking after a pet gerbil.

There are many species of gerbil. The Mongolian gerbil is most often kept as a pet.

Introduction

How to care for a gerbil.

Gerbils should never be kept alone and are happiest in small groups. You should handle a gerbil carefully to avoid any stress to the gerbil. Gerbils should be picked up by gently cupping them with two hands, and fully supporting their body. It is important to interact with your gerbils every day. You should never leave your gerbils unsupervised with another animal who may harm or frighten them. Finally, when caring for your gerbil it is most important that you should never pick up a gerbil by the tail, as this can really harm them.

A suitable home for a gerbil.

Provide your gerbils with a gerbilarium large enough to provide shelter, opportunities to dig and space to exercise. You should also provide adequate bedding and nesting material, because gerbils naturally like to build nests, so bedding material should be deep enough to allow your gerbils to dig and build their own nest. Provide your gerbil with a comfortable, dry, clean place to live, and keep your gerbils in a quiet place where they can rest undisturbed.

Gerbils like to have cardboard, paper, hay, empty toilet rolls, and egg containers to chew on. They also need a rough-surfaced object such as a stone to help wear down claws.

Don't use a cage with metal bars as this can be dangerous for gerbils, also sawdust should not be used as it may cause breathing problems.

What a gerbil eats.

Gerbils must always have access to clean fresh water. You should feed your gerbils various grasses and a range of leaves and herbs. To keep a gerbil's diet varied feed them fruit (pear, melon, apple, oranges) and vegetables (cucumber, carrot, and pumpkin). Do not give your gerbil grapes or rhubarb as these are poisonous to them. Gerbils love to hoard food in large stores; in the wild, gerbils may hoard up to 1.5kg of grain in one store! So don't be surprised to find food around the cage.

Gerbils require care and attention, a specific diet and home. If you follow this advice for caring for a pet gerbil, it will be happy and healthy.

Feb 9-10:53

Introduction

Feb 9-10:47

Session 2

How many subheadings have you completed so far?

Swap books with a partner and read their report so far.

Look at the learning label - will they be pink? Will they have green for growth?

Continuing our report...

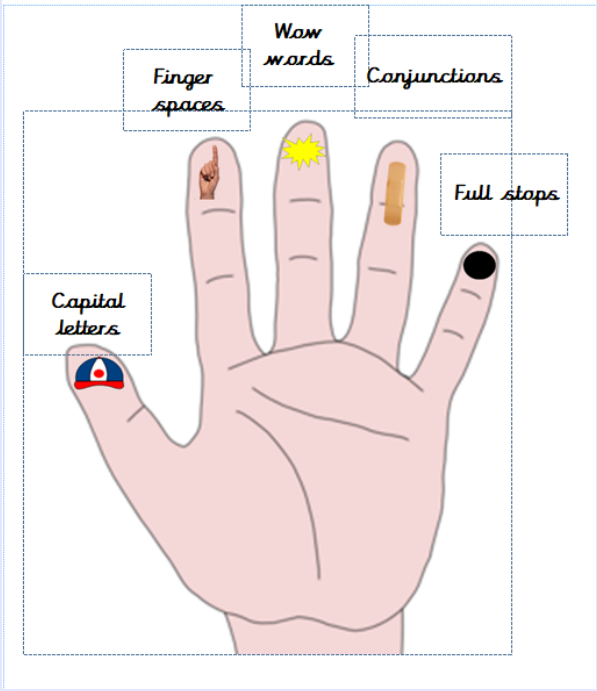

Which sentences work well in a report? Which ones don't? Why?

1. Eyelashes keep sweat out of eyes.

2. Her long, luscious eyelashes flickered beneath the moonlit sky.

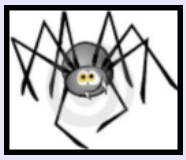

3. Eyelashes are fine wisps of hair that grow along the edge of the eyelid.

Let's carry on. Begin a new subheading. Don't forget...

Read team

What do we need at the end of a report?

Looking after a pet gerbil.

There are many species of gerbil. The Mongolian gerbil is most often kept as a pet.

How to care for a gerbil.

Gerbils should never be kept alone and are happiest in small groups. You should handle a gerbil carefully to avoid any stress to the gerbil. Gerbils should be picked up by gently cupping them with two hands, and fully supporting their body. It is important to interact with your gerbils every day. You should never leave your gerbils unsupervised with another animal who may harm or frighten them. Finally, when caring for your gerbil it is most important that you should never pick up a gerbil by the tail, as this can really harm them.

A suitable home for a gerbil.

Provide your gerbils with a gerbilarium large enough to provide shelter, opportunities to dig and space to exercise. You should also provide adequate bedding and nesting material, because gerbils naturally like to build nests, so bedding material should be deep enough to allow your gerbils to dig and build their own nest. Provide your gerbil with a comfortable, dry, clean place to live, and keep your gerbils in a quiet place where they can rest undisturbed.

Gerbils like to have cardboard, paper, hay, empty toilet rolls, and egg containers to chew on. They also need a rough-surfaced object such as a stone to help wear down claws.

Don't use a cage with metal bars as this can be dangerous for gerbils, also sawdust should not be used as it may cause breathing problems.

What a gerbil eats.

Gerbils must always have access to clean fresh water. You should feed your gerbils various grasses and a range of leaves and herbs. To keep a gerbil's diet varied feed them fruit (pear, melon, apple, oranges) and vegetables (cucumber, carrot, and pumpkin). Do not give your gerbil grapes or rhubarb as these are poisonous to them. Gerbils love to hoard food in large stores; in the wild, gerbils may hoard up to 1.5kg of grain in one store! So don't be surprised to find food around the cage.

Gerbils require care and attention, a specific diet and home. If you follow this advice for caring for a pet gerbil, it will be happy and healthy.

Conclusion / closing statement

Feb 5-22:58

Conclusion

Feb 9-10:47

https://easyscienceforkids.com/fun-eyes-quiz-free-interactive-general-science-quiz-for-kids/

What do we know about the eye? Let's take a quiz and find out how much we know now.

Feb 9-10:57

Attachments

- http://www.cyh.com/HealthTopics/HealthTopicDetailsKids.aspx?p=335&np=152&id=1730
- http://www.childrensuniversity.manchester.ac.uk/interactives/science/brainandsenses/eye/