Here are some squares to use as a non-standard unit of measure. You can cut these out and use them to measure how long the Dragon tails are and also anything else you may find around your house. Why don't you have a go at recording what you measure in your home and how many squares long it is.

